

Say it; what it is:: It is God's Nature

He will restore order; He cannot stand chaos, crookedness; it is His nature; He seeks perfection, some interpreted it as The Wrath of God. The only way for us to avoid His wrath is for us to be intimate with Him, know His nature, His character, know what He will not tolerate, become sons. Sons know their fathers and will not provoke them to anger. A son always obeyed his father; he knows the rules; they are there for a reason, fathers are always wiser than sons; they know best; therefore a son obeys his father. His father sets the rules, the house belongs to him, he is king of his castle and what he says, goes.

“I always do the things that please the father, the father has never left Me”, Jesus said. In order to make this expression a reality in your life, “Like father, like son”, you must become one with the father. “Me and My father are one”,

Jesus said and He is accurate, “the son does nothing on His own, I do what the father does and say what the father tells Me”.

God set a date to restore order, cleans the house, make straight the crooked things, this people say is The Day of Vengeance, The Day of the Lord and rightly so, this is His nature; He is perfect, therefore, He seeks perfection, order. If you are straight, you have nothing to worry about. “Who shall stand in the day of the Lord”, “He who has a clean heart”, “anything that could be shaken, will be shaken”. If you are straight and take on the measure of His righteousness on you, you have nothing to worry about. Jesus is that measure, the measure of His righteousness, the standard that we all must become before God can call us sons. He is waiting to give us full access to His awesome power, His creative power, when we take on His measure of righteousness, take on the identity that He set for us in Jesus.
