

How We Become The Enemy

Note:

Profiling the seed of greatness in its stage of arrested development using Bin Laden as an example.

Bin Laden personified the enemy; he was the face of the enemy. The seed of greatness that was in him has stopped growing, developing, he had reached a dead end, a state of arrested development. Subconsciously he was trying to redeem himself from his failure. His prime motivator was his need to be acknowledged. Bin Laden had an inferiority complex; he was driven by the need for recognition. He would not be denied; he wanted to be acknowledged at all cost. In this state of arrested development, the person feels that his existence is threaten, he is driven by an existential threat. This argument is valid because the need for recognition is as powerful as the need for survival because the need for recognition is really the fear of annihilation of one own existence, an existential threat of becoming irrelevant, lagging behind, left behind. The nature of the enemy is terror and it has many faces over the years, if we can understand its nature we can unmask it and change it. Countries are classrooms, people are bundled up in countries and regions because of their communalities. It is easier to kill oneself than to face the choices that God places before us. Most of us miss our marks and desire to redeem ourselves doing things that do not count. Martyrdom is an act of cowardice simply because it is a way of escape for the choices we don't want to face. Greater than the fear of death is the fear of facing ourselves. This tool will help the people in the Middle Eastern region, help them understand what is driving them, what is motivated them to kill themselves to prove their point. There is a displacement of emotion, something is not in sink and it is costing us lives, our freedom and resources. Weed to help governments in the region to become accountable for their citizen actions and behaviors. They can be helped if we can show them what is it that is driving them and making them behave the way they do. Below is an understanding of the seed of greatness t hat God places inside of us, what happens to it when it is not developed and what can we do to keep it from becoming the seed of wickedness that is driving people to commit acts of terror against us and against themselves. This picture above is a true rendering of the development of the seed of greatness in its arrested stage of development.

The Argument

“The seed was in itself”; which means that the seed is in the self. God puts the seed of greatness inside of us. God created us with the desire to do great things. The seed is the self, you have to deny the self to find God because the seed is what God puts inside of you and when it is not develop, it becomes wicked. Wickedness is a failure, a dead end or a plateau in the development of the seed; this happen when we miss our marks. Why our seed stops growing? Our seed stops growing when we miss our marks, when we don't exercise the choices that God places before us. We fail to make the choices that God places before us because we get too complacent, when we get into a life of routine, when we allow our dreams to be overrun by routines, we become too sluggish, too rigid to flow with the spirit of God. The Holy Spirit of God has to come inside of us to stir up the dream that God puts inside of us. God puts that seed inside of us, this seed of righteousness, this seed of justice that is suppose to impact the world, however we have to be fluid, flexible for the Holy Spirit of God to move in us. We have to stop living by routines; they make us too heavy, not quick enough to react to the choices that God places before us. Our dream is always about the choices that God wants us to make and if we are too rigid to make those choices or too heavy to make the right choices, we miss our marks. The seed is dormant inside of us until the Holy Spirit of God synergizes us; stir up the seed of greatness inside of us. The Holy Spirit of God is the one who synergizes the seed that is dormant inside of us. We need to know what is our gift, what is our talent and find out what we are good at and then let our passion interacts with our gifts and talent so that we may know what God calls us to do, what He assigned us to do in this world.

God created you to impact the world in whatever sphere He assigned you to be, find your sphere, follow your calling and you will find God. “Find that which is essential and become it”. Find what you are the best at, what you are passionate about; this is your calling from God. At one point in our development we inevitably come to a dead end or a plateau where we stop growing, this is the point when God Himself has to intervene in our lives to minister a change. This point of intersection is called a breaking point. This breaking point happens in the flow of time when the forces that restrain us and keeping us behind intersect the forces that propel us and moving us forward. This point of intersection is usually a point of great upheaval, when the winds of change are blowing and moving us forward. The antithesis of this system of things, the reasons why this system must go is this: “Every human being wants to be treated equally; no one wants to feel inferior to anyone else”; this system wants to make it otherwise. This system wants to favor some and denies others, affirmed some ad negate others. Everything that is attainable in this world should belong to a privilege few; the world of Attainment belongs to the one group. Contrary to what God intended; God wants us to embrace our humanity, that is to be the Good Samaritan, give to those in need, treat others as we would like them to treat us, forgive as many times as necessary, put our egos aside, lead by example, etc. Jesus said that He is the way and the life; the life style He prescribed for us is the way to quicken us, make us fluid and flexible so that we may be able to respond to the prompting of the Holy Spirit of God. To achieve perfection in life, to fulfill the dreams that God puts in our hearts, we must have the Holy Spirit of God to work with us. To find the spirit of God, to flow with the spirit of God we have to be fluid enough, quick enough to respond to the demands of the spirit of God. The only way God gave us to find Him is in the way we live, the lifestyle we chose to live. This lifestyle can be found in the precepts that Jesus Christ left for us. They are simple as in treating others as you would like others to treat us, be the Good Samaritan, help those in need, turn the other cheek that is we must seek alternatives to resolve our conflicts, forgive as many times as necessary, put our ego aside and let God Guide us in everything we do. Trust God to find a way for you, don't worry sick about your needs, and just trust God. Follow your passion, follow your gift, let God guide you, live the life style prescribed by Jesus, with these two approaches you can literally get even with anyone who is trying to put you down, cut you off of your possibilities in this world; you can close the gap that separate you and them, overcome the disparities that separate you and them.

Goals and objectives

I don't want this project to get lost in translation or don't make the point that I intend to make. I want to explain the dynamics behind the different époque of terror we have in our history starting with slavery, the Holocaust and then Al-Qaeda. I want to show how they all have to do with the stages in our human development. I want to bring awareness to that fact so that we can take the steps necessary to avoid repeating what happen in the past. I believe that if we can recognize the different stages we are in, we can take measure to avoid the pitfalls of the past. If I can help people, nations, organization, political parties, institutions discover in what stage of development they are in our current human development and if they continue without making the changes necessary what will happen to them. Today we are battling an enemy that proves to be resilient and we have no end in sight when this war of terror will end. I believe that if we can show scientifically what is happening to people, what is driving them to behave the way they do; we can avert another repeat of Bin laden, Hitler, the rage in people of the Middle East against the West, etc. This is my aim and the reason why I am writing this book. I believe that God gave me the revelation. I have been working with this book for over twenty years. I did not know that what I was working on was related to what is happening today in the war on terror. They are the same except they are fueled by two different dynamics and both dynamics have to do with human development and our fear of annihilation. I don't know if I should go back to incorporate all of the works I have done previously into this one. There are two separate dynamics and both have the same thing in common that is driving them. The engine behind both of them is the fear of annihilation, an existential threat that is driving them. My goal is to show those that are stuck where they went wrong and where they need to go to get right.

How I started in search for the truth?

It is all in the life, don't get mad I told my Muslims friend, get even literally. It is all in the life, lifestyle that is. There is a lifestyle that guarantees you an increase in your cognitive ability, increases your intuitive capacity, and quickens you so that you can respond to the needs of the world around you. This lifestyle will make you fluid and flexible, easy to make the changes, go around the bends of time when changes are required. If you can change your lifestyle to embrace the changes that are required of you then you will see an exponential change in attitude from Israel and the rest of the world toward you. If you are moving in the same direction as them, not living in the reality of the past; you are indeed of the same seed. Check my website for lifestyle and seed. It all began fifteen years or so ago; I decided to write several professors of humanities in various universities around the world. I wanted to tell them about my observations; what I see happening in the world. I told them that is my belief and conviction that there were two worlds of people out there, two separate realities, two different humanities where one world was moving at a faster pace, accelerating into the future and that other world, the people were more sluggish, less responsive to the needs of their environment, consequently lagging behind. I told them that if this trend continued, the gap that separated them will continue to widen until there is a split giving us two separate worlds within one humanity with separate realities. I also told them that in my observations I noticed that the majority of people living in the world that is lagging behind are of the darker complexion, black, red, brown and some yellow. I told them also that I observed that the industrial world is made up mostly of people of lighter complexion. I wanted to know what is the cause for the disparities that exist between the two worlds, why stagnation was more prevalent among people of the darker complexion. This has been a journey of discovery for me; the more I asked questions, the more God made it possible for me to understand the intricacies and the complexities of this world. Today I understand the causes for the disparities that exist between blacks and whites, the forces that restrained humanity and the forces that are pushing humanity forward, the cause for terror, starting with slavery, Apartheid, Jim Crow, the Holocaust and Al Qaeda. I understand the duality in human existence, the forces that restrained and the forces that propel humanity, the adversarial system that is operating in this world, the dynamics of life, Attainment and Negation, Acceleration and Stagnation.

An Exercise in Futility

I don't know what they are trying to achieve; it is futile, an exercise in futility, an effort that will lead them to nowhere. Yet they are making progress; they are forcing us to change our way of life indirectly. The more we try to protect ourselves by reducing our freedom; we are becoming like them. We should try to bring God into their lives; this way He will guide them to the truth. We have the tools; I believe that these too will help them get in touch with their true nature, understand the cause for why they are the way they are. They will change not because we will try to change them; they will change because these tools will help them find their true calling, their purpose in life. I told one of my correspondences, someone I send my newsletter to; he is a Muslim. Muslims are very sensitive to the issue of Israeli/Palestinian; you cannot tell either side the truth. I told my friend that the situation between the Palestinian and the Jews can easily be resolved; it is all in the life, life style that is. They are in conflict because each is moving in the opposite direction of each other and this is so only because of their way of life. One way of life allows one to move forward, develop and grow and the other keeps one moving backward and regressing back into the past. The law makes it favorable for whoever is moving forward to be on top; this is true in nature as well. Neither will relinquish their position, especially if one side is considered a threat to the other way of life. If they were able to adjust their lifestyle to match, this conflict will be over. I told my correspondence not to get mad with the Jews, get even literally with them. There is so much space that separates them simply because of the disparities caused by their way of life, lifestyle, etc. It is all in the life; if they could live the life that will increase their cognitive ability, their intuitive capacity, they too will be able to achieve the success that the Jews are enjoying.
