NEWS UPDATE

I am amazed to see how easy it is for them to get caught in the small stuffs, the things that don't matter while the true reality is played out right in front of them and they cannot see it. I think that it is human nature for people to gravitate toward the path of least resistance. It is easier for people to abandon themselves to anger and rage than to take deliberate effort to change the course of events. I think that this is what separates the Third World people with the Industrial World people, their ability to stay fluid, flexible, easy to make turns, stay above the fray, not getting caught in the small stuffs that don't matter.

If the crisis in Haiti was confronted by people who understand what really matter; they would have done what it takes to fix the situation, go over their impasses, even if they have to amend their constitution or just leave the past buried and concern only with the present. This saying also goes for both president Martelly and President Aristide; they would have identified the real enemy by now.

You need the light of Christ to see the truth; Christ is the provision that God made available for them. You cannot be in the light of God unless you have a certain degree of righteousness, a standard of conduct that is consistent to the way that God operates, do things. This standard or this measure of conduct is revealed in Jesus Christ. This struggle between President Aristide and President Martelly or between the Haitian Parliament and President Martelly is really a struggle with the enemy that is trying to keep Haiti as a nation out of the blessing of God. Both president Martelly and President Aristide are not accepting God's way. "You will die in your filth" if you don't accept God's leadership; your dreams, your aspirations will die while the enemy is rejoicing. I am paraphrasing Jesus; He said die in your sin and not filth. They are doing everything wrong except facing the real enemy. The small stuffs, the things that don't matter, lead people no where are those things that they are using as weapons to put down each other. In the mid time, the enemy agenda is pushing forward. Wake up and see the truth; there is nothing in the way right now that they cannot fix. If the constitution is a problem, fix it, amend it. The past should not hold this country from moving forward, rather it is president Martelly past or president Aristide past; there is only one enemy; it is this system of things. This war should not be against each other, but against the ruler of the darkness of this world. White Haitians and black Haitians are victims, neither of you have a country right now. You can pretend to come from the country of your ancestors, be it Congo, Nigeria, France, Syria, Italy or Germany, at the end this system will win if you don't let God leads you, put your ego aside, and know who has the power to lead you to the victory. "Both former enemies start laughing deliberately hence they realized what was happening. They realized that there was an alien entity among them that was inciting them to violence. They wanted to give their real enemy a message that they know what was happening to them; this was how they conquered their common enemy that was subconsciously pitching them against each other and incite them to violence against their own people.

The art or manipulation

You cannot see it, until you are well in it or pass through it, while you are in it, you cannot see it. “The reason for that is that human beings are always one step behind reality, recollecting what was”. This is the darkness of this world that Jesus talked about. You don't have the awareness, the inner light to show you what is happening, the true reality that is happening. You need God to light up your path so that you can see what is really happening around you. “You will die in your filth unless you believe that I am the one, the provision that God made available for you to get you out of this system of things, the darkness of this world. I am just paraphrasing Jesus words, He said sin not filth. You are all puppets, pitching against each other, while the true reality is played out and you cannot see it until you are in it. By the time you see it, it is already too late. Rather it is President Aristide or president Martelly, you cannot do anything without God leading you; this is a fact. True leadership is to acknowledge your limitation and let God lead you. One thing that I am certain of is that you will not win on your own against this system of things. The enemy that you are fighting against is neither one of you; it is this system of things, the darkness of this world. Because it is easier for us to take the path of least resistance, it requires no effort to follow the obvious, no act of will or deliberate effort, people tend to go widely into their emotions, not seeing reality.

I think that it is time for President Aristide to step forward and let God lead him, tell his people that God is in charge, whatever the country needs to move forward, he should urge the people should support it; President Martelly should do the same with his people. The Haiti that you want is already in charge by entities, principalities, rulers of the darkness of this world, the only way that you can take it back is for you to let God help you take it back, give you the victory.

What the Enemy is After:

The enemy wants to keep you out of the blessing of God. Some nations are already in the blessing of God; they prosper and excel forward. Their blessing can also be yours; God spoke the blessing of mankind over Abraham for all nations, for all of the family of the earth. Abraham is the father of faith and righteousness, God wants to bless your country, lead your people in righteousness. You have a right to prosper and excel forward; the job of the leader is to instill hope in the people, remind them of the promises of God for their lives, makes them feel that they are not hopeless. Tell them that God has a plan for them and that the enemy is trying to keep them out of the blessing of God, manipulating events, steering their emotions, make them feel helpless. Our natural disposition is for us to follow the impulses coming from our bodies, our fear, our anger; this is the cause for the fall of man from grace. It is so much easier for us to give ourselves up to anger that will eventually leads us to rage than to take charge which requires deliberate effort. This is where the leader steps in to redirect the people, re-aligned their mind to point in a new direction, force them to think, give them hope. The job of a leader is not to allow the people to sway wildly by their emotions, give them direction and hope. Righteous anger, justifiable anger is an emotion that can be directed, not wild and abandon anger that can lead them to rage and destruction. The enemy relishes when people are running wild, without direction, no one to guide them.
