Who is the Man?

A man is as good as the world which sustains him and vice versa, a country is as good as the people who inhabit it. It takes one to change the many; the government is of the people and by the people. It is the people that form the government, the government comes from the people. God said if the people are willing to turn away from their wicked ways, He will heal their land. When the student is ready, the teacher appears; which means that the people can force the leader to come out.

Somewhere in the midst of the people a true leader that is waiting to appear; could he be the one? We just have to wait and see. Repons Peyizan is an answer to the people; Duvalier could have been the one who change the people of Haiti, but he did not really understand what it means that it takes one to change the many. His answer to the people served him, but did not serve the people. Had he really understand that it takes one to change the many; he would have served the people instead of using the people to serve him. He wanted power for the sake of power, for his self aggrandizement. Mao Zedong was a dictator at the service of the people; he did not crush the people for his own sake, but for their sake. This is the fundamental difference. I don’t know who the man; he is still to be discovered. I know what I am but I don’t know for sure what I am until God tells me what I am. God speaks to us in the now and call us from the future. Who he is and what he is we don’t know for sure; however we are trusting that God called him to this job. Haiti surely needs a leader; there has not been one really dedicated to serve the needs of the Haitian people for a long time. I hope that he is a departure from what we used to have as leaders.
